INTRODUCTION

The outcome of the 1993 county elections in England and Wales - perhaps the last ever to be contested - marked a new low in the fortunes of the Conservative party in local government. Just over one in four county councillors are Conservative instead of the more than 40% they have enjoyed since reorganisation of local government took place in the early 1970s. This massive reduction in Conservative councillors has meant the party now controls outright a single county - Buckinghamshire - out of the 47 in England and Wales. The term 'Tory shires', for a long time the political shorthand for the party's dominant role in the local politics of rural and suburban Britain, has now become largely redundant. In 1977, the Conservatives controlled 34 county councils, a figure which declined gradually when it was forced to defend seats at a time of national unpopularity. By 1989 the party had been driven into its strongholds of the Home Counties, East Anglia and the prosperous counties of South and South East England. The 1993 results, however, open a new chapter in the decline of Conservatives in local government.

The figures in Table 1 catalogue the collapse of Conservative support and reveal the Liberal Democrats as the main beneficiaries of this decline. The Conservative vote share in England was lower than even that of the 1985 elections when the party was under siege from the Liberal/SDP Alliance. The Liberal Democrats, however, are a much more efficient electoral fighting machine than their predecessors. Not only has the party increased its share of the vote (29.3 compared with 27.9 in 1985) but it has targeted winnable seats to a more effective degree. Once heavy losers from our 'First Past the Post' system the Liberal Democrats won 27.8% of seats - only fractionally behind their vote share. For their opponents, and principally the Conservatives, this ability to target and win seats makes them much more dangerous than in the past.

The number of candidates fighting the 3500 county divisions was roughly equivalent to that of four years previously. Labour showed a small increase while the Liberal Democrats fought almost exactly the same number of seats as had the separate forces of the SLD and SDP in 1989. In that year the Greens were enjoying probably their most successful period to date in British politics and it is interesting to note that, despite their decline in national politics, they still managed to field over 500 candidatesin 1993, although their vote share in seats contested in England declined from 9.3% to just 4.9%. In Wales, Plaid Cymru increased its number of candidates from 115 to 175 and improved its vote share in seats contested by 3.3% to 30.2%. The number of Independents and minor party candidates increased in England but declined in Wales.

Table 2 : Uncontested seats, turnout and women candidates in England and Wales

Average turnout in contested seats			Number of uncontested seats
England: 37.2	Wales: 38.8		England: 60	Wales: 111
Number of candidates		of whom women	of whom successful	% women county cllrs
England	9068	2407 (26.5%)	698	23.3
Wales	1150	231 (20.1%)	76	15.1

Overall, turnout was less than in 1989. In England, average turnout in contested seats fell from 39.2% to 37.2%, while in Wales it fell from 44% in 1989 to 38.8% in 1993. Although any decline in electoral participation is of concern it should be noted that these elections took place at a time when the future of the English counties lay in the hands of the Local Government Commission while that of their Welsh counterparts had already been determined by government 'fiat'. These factors, taken alongside the deep unpopularity of the Conservative party, might well have culminated in a far bigger drop in turnout than was witnessed.

In terms of female representation the 1993 county elections indicate painfully slow progress. The increase in women candidates was less than 1% while the number of women county councillors increased by just 15. These figures are, of course, rather better than the 19.3% and 9.2% of women candidates and elected members respectively recorded at the last general election, but overall there appears to be little sign of a breakthrough in terms of equality of representation.

As the graph of changing levels of vote share indicates the real beneficiaries of the collapse of Conservative support were the Liberal Democrats. From the late 1970s onwards the Conservatives have seen their grip on the shire counties weakened but Labour appear to have been unable to capitalise and expand their own vote share. Following a steady build up of their support in the 1981-85 period the Liberals then suffered considerably following the break-up of the Alliance. The 1993 results, however, have more than reversed that process.

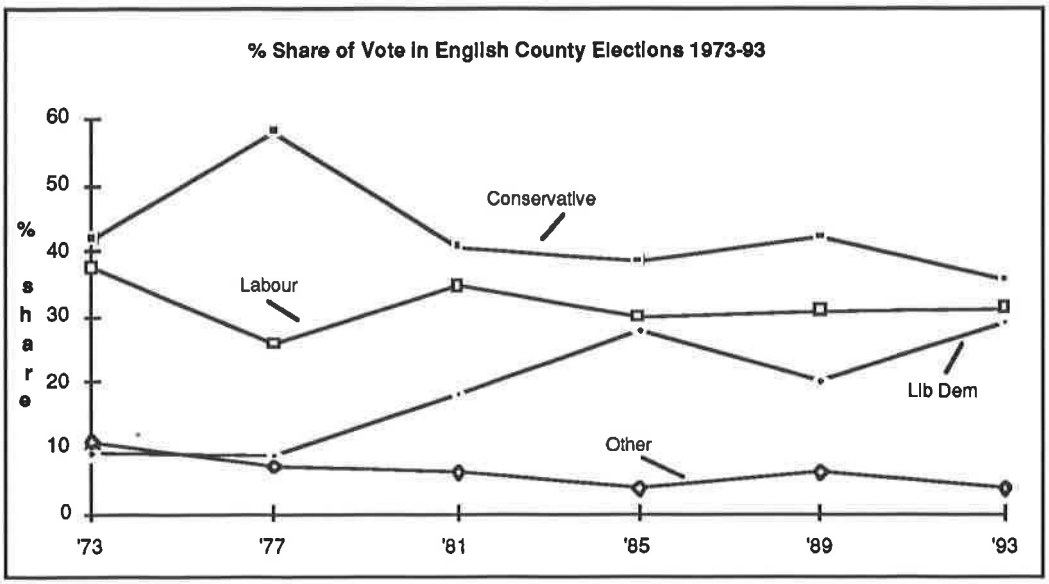

Table 3 illustrates the transfer of seats between the 1989 and 1993 elections. In all the Conservatives lost 510 seats - no less than 35% of their county council representation - and the bulk of these losses were sustained at the hands of Liberal Democrat candidates. With over 860 wins the Democrats performed far better than the Alliance had in 1985 (601 wins) and this is reflected in their political presence in many of the newly formed county administrations. Although Labour emerged with their largest number of councillors at this level of local government the party will have been frustrated that the total of net gains was not higher and that certain key target councils, principally Avon, Cheshire and Cumbria, failed to fall under their control. Clearly, in parts of the south and south east Labour is still regarded as a third choice by many local voters.

Table 3 : Transfer of seats 1989-1993

The real scale of the Conservative disaster, however, is not appreciated properly until one examines the political complexion of individual local authorities. Then, the truly historic dimensions of defeat become more apparent. Counties such as Dorset, Kent and Norfolk have been controlled by the Conservatives since they were formed in the last century.

Following the May elections, apart from Buckinghamshire, the Conservatives were the largest party in just 8 counties (Cambridgeshire, Hereford & Worcester, Kent, Lincolnshire, Norfolk, Oxfordshire, Shropshire and Surrey) and even here the scale of their defeats might mean political circumstances working against the formation of Conservative dominated administrations. In other counties formerly held by the Conservatives the party saw itself overtaken either by Labour or the Liberal Democrats. Conservative majorities in Essex, Hertfordshire, Suffolk and Warwickshire were replaced with hung councils with Labour the largest party. The performance of the Liberal Democrats was even more spectacular. In Berkshire, Devon, Dorset, East Sussex, Hampshire and West Sussex Conservative majorities were overturned to be replaced by Liberal Democrats as the dominant party. A subsequent court decision countermanded the result for the Lytchett division which the Conservatives had won by a single vote. In the by-election fought on 16th September the Liberal Democrats stormed to victory and took overall control of Dorset council. The party has, in addition to being a key player in many of the hung counties, overall control in Cornwall, the Isle of Wight, Somerset and now Dorset.

USING THE DIGEST

County Councils are listed in alphabetical order within two separate categories -English and Welsh shires. All election results are taken from figures provided by and checked with local Electoral Administrators. In some cases these differ from Press Association data, especially, for example, where candidates who specifically stood as 'Liberal' or as 'Independent' have been added by PA to the Liberal Democrat or Conservative totals for the authority.

At the beginning there are aggregate statistics covering first the counties and then the component districts . Percentage share is the proportion of the total valid vote polled by each party. The number of seats contested and the number of seats won by each party is also noted. In the case of the counties there are comparative data for each party relating to change in share of the vote between 1989 and 1993. Turnout, in brackets after the name of the county/district, is the overall turnout in those divisions which had a contested election.

The results for each division are listed in alphabetical order within districts within county. The figure in brackets is the electorate for 1993. The practice adopted by local authorities for calculating this figure varies - in some cases it includes all names on the 1993 register, in others it is a more accurate record of only those entitled to vote on election day in May. It has been impossible to adopt a standard definition of electorate or reliably to identify the particular procedures used by each authority. The appearance of a date in [square brackets] on this line indicates that the election was not held for some reason on May 7th but was contested on the later, specified date. This year there were four such instances, (Brunswick & Claremont, Lancashire; Arnold Central, Nottinhamshire; Offa, Clwyd; Seven Sisters, West Glamorgan) as well as the election in Lytchett referred to above. The result of that by-election was as follows:

Lytchett, Dorset - By-election result : 16th September 1993

Lib Dem	3047	60.3%
Con	1879	37.2%
Lab	125	2.5%

Turnout : 62.9%

Candidates are listed in descending order of vote. The first initial is given; 'Ms' after a candidate's name indicates a woman; and '*' indicates that the candidate was a sitting councillor. Candidates whose names are in bold are those elected. Vote is the number of electors who supported each candidate and Share the proportion of the total number who cast a valid ballot supporting each candidate. Where a candidate was returned unopposed this is noted and figures for vote, share, turnout and majority are recorded as '0.0'. Below the list of candidates, votes and shares is a line of data detailing the result in the division in 1989, the turnout and the percentage majority. Turnout is the proportion of the electorate given for the ward who cast valid ballots. The figure to the right of the turnout represents the lead of the winning candidate over the second placed candidate in percentage terms rounded to one decimal place. In some cases the result field for 1989 will be missing. This is because in Wiltshire, Clwyd and parts of Gloucestershire there were boundary changes and new divisions have been created. The coding of Liberal Democrats proved problematic owing to the wide range of party descriptions used by these candidates in the 1989 elections. 'SLD' refers to Social and Liberal Democrat and there are a number of similar variations on that theme. It is our sincere hope that the party does not alter its name again.

The abbreviations used for party are relatively straightforward:

CON: Conservative
LAB: Labour
LD: Liberal Democrat
SDP: Social Democrat Party
IND: Independent
GREEN: Green
PC: Plaid Cymru
MRLP: Monster Raving Loony
PABAG: People against Bureaucracy
BNP: British National Party
COMM: Communist
GPC: Green/Plaid Cymru
LIB: Liberal
MK: Mebyon Kernow

IND CON: Indep. Conservative
IND LAB: Independent Labour
IND LD: Independent Liberal Democrat
SLD Social and Liberal Democrat
VOP: Voice of the People
IND GREEN: Independent Green
IND PC: Independent PC
NLP: Natural Law Party

NF : National Front
RATE: Ratepayer (Assoc)
RES: Resident (Assoc)
IND LIB: Independent Liberal
IND SOC: Independent Socialist

N.B. Some individual candidates who did not specify a party affiliation have been coded as IND.
