Notes for the London Borough Elections 1900-1962

The twenty-eight London Boroughs were created under the Local Government Act of 1899. The first election for the authorities was held on the 1st November 1900.

For the period up to 1906 the Conservative Party and allies contested the elections as Moderates and the Liberals and allies as Progressives. By 1906 the name of Moderate was replaced by Municipal Reform. Much of the detail concerning the names of parties were gleaned from contemporary press reports. For the elections of 1900 and 1900 the name Conservative, Unionist and Moderate were used for those candidates representing the Conservative Party at Local elections.

Not all boroughs used these labels especially when there were some disagreements between the Conservative London Municipal Society and local parties and coalitions. This is evident in Battersea where the name Municipal Alliance was used in 1900 and 1903 and in Stepney where pro-conservatives uses the name Union of Stepney Ratepayers.

The Progressives were also a coalition of centre left interests. In the early days of the Labour party many candidates stood on a party ticket with the Progressives. The local press did not always specify which candidates belonged to which party. The period of 1900 to 1912 sees many candidates representing Socialism in many guises. Even the press found difficulty in establishing their true identity.

The Labour party made a quick impact into the borough of Woolwich. In 1900 centre left candidates were classified as Progressive but by 1903 this had changed to Labour. It is interesting to not that this borough had turnouts in excess of 70% for some of it wards in the early years. This was the first London Borough to be controlled by Labour in 1903

Following the First World War, politics in London at local level mirrored those at Westminster. The decline of the Progressives saw the rise of the Labour Party and a rapid changed occurred. To stem the flow of socialist victories the Progressives formed local alliances with Municipal Reform Candidates and contested elections under a new anti-socialist label in many boroughs. By 1928 many of these alliances fell apart and the Liberal/Progressives began to fight under their own name once again. In some areas the alliance merged totally under the Municipal Reform Party. Alliances continued up to the Second World War in some areas and finally disappeared after 1946.

By 1949 the Conservative Party contested London Elections under that name.

Notes for Individual London Boroughs

Battersea:

The Municipal Alliance was a Centre Right Coalition of Ratepayers and Conservatives. The Local Conservative and Unionist Association supported these candidates in 1900 and 1903.

By 1906 the Municipal Reform and Municipal Alliance contested wards between them. Only in one ward did they oppose each other.

Bermondsey:

In 1922 the Municipal Reform and Progressive Parties contested wards in the Rotherhithe Constituency under the Ratepayers label.

Between 1925 and 1931 the parties contested all wards jointly under the title of Electoral Alliance. This broke down by the 1934 elections.

Bethnal Green:

In 1922 Municipal Reform and Progressives combine to fight elections as Ratepayers Candidates. This was a strong Liberal area and the Progressives were the main alliance partners. In 1928 the Progressives fought the elections in the North and East Wards as Progressives while in the South and West Wards candidates from both parties fought the election as 'Peoples Candidates'. By 1928 the alliance had broken up.

Camberwell:

In 1906 and 1909 the local Conservative and Unionist Association supported the Ratepayers Association candidates in Wards 1 and 3.

In 1922 and 1925 some wards were fought by the Municipal Reform and Progressive parties as Ratepayers. This ceased in 1928.

Notes for the London Borough Elections 1900-1962

Finsbury:

Alliance between the Progressives and Municipal Reform formed in 1922 ad lasted until 1937. In 1925 Liberals opposed to the alliance seem to have fought the elections as the Middle Party in Ward 9. The Times listed these as Progressives.

Greenwich:

There seems to have been a local agreement with the Municipal Reform and Progressive Parties in 1922 and 1925 allowing each other a free run in certain wards. Only in the North and West Wards were there joint candidates in 1922 and in West Ward only in 1925. However they fought under their actual party label. By 1928 this agreement had been dissolved except in the North ward where one Progressive councilor continued to fight in harness with two Municipal Reform candidates until 1934. Elsewhere the Liberals contested wards.

Hackney:

In 1906 the pro Conservative 'Ratepayers Association' fought wards 1,6, 7 and 8 under some agreement. It would appear that in Ward 8 some disaffected Municipal Reform candidates contested the ward. The local press recognised that Ratepayers Candidates were in fact Municipal Reformers. Only in ward 8 did they oppose each other in 1909.

Between 1922 and 1934 Municipal Reform and the Progressives contested the elections under the alliance name of Progressive Reformers. In 1928 Progressive/Liberal candidates begin fight separately indicating a local split in the alliance.

Hammersmith:

In 1906 it would appear that the Progressives formed an anti-Conservative alliance under the Ratepayers label. By 1909 the Municipal Reformers also fought under this title causing the Progressives to fight under their own label.

From 1922 until 1937 an alliance called the Constitutional Ratepayers Alliance was formed.

Hampstead:

In 1903 the election was fought on Non-Political lines. The local press identified those candidates nominated by the Progressive and Non Political Union and listed them as Progressives. This caused a lot of correspondence in the national and local press.

The Hamstead Citizens Union which contested the 1912 election are regarded and nominees of the Progressive Association.

From 1925 an alliance called the Municipal Elector's Alliance was formed by the Progressive and Municipal Reform parties.

Lewisham:

Following the First World War former Conservative councilors in the Lewisham East Constituency contested the elections as Independents. By 1922 they had reverted back to using the Municipal Reform label.

Poplar:

The Conservative Party seems to have adopted the name Municipal Alliance from 1906. This title is used in some local press reports while others call them Municipal Reform.

From 1922 to 1925 the Municipal reform label was used. In 1928 the name Anti-Socialist Alliance was used. Between 1931 and 1937 this became known as the Ratepayers Association.

St. Marylebone:

In 1900 and 1903 the NPU (Non Political Union had support from the Progressives and as such were classified as Progressives by some local papers.

Shoreditch:

In 1919 the name Progressive Reformers was used to describe Progressive and Alliance Candidates. In one ward the local Progressives and Labour candidates contested the election against the Progressive Reformers. These seem to have been local Liberals who disagreed with the alliance. In 1922 the alliance fights under the Ratepayers Association.

In 1931 and 1937 an anti-socialist alliance is formed under the name 'People's Party'. This continued to 1945 where the election was fought under the name People's Progressive Party'.

Notes for the London Borough Elections 1900-1962

Southwark:

In 1922 the Ratepayers Association is formed as an anti-socialist alliance. In 1928 and 1934 some Liberals withdrew and fought under that name. In 1937 the Ratepayers Alliance changed their name to Municipal Progressives.

Stepney:

In 1906 the local Conservatives and Ratepayers called themselves the 'Union of Stepney Ratepayers. This continued up to 1919. For this period local press considered them to be Municipal Reformers in all but name and often recorded the candidates as such. There seem to have been various alliances in Stepney which also included the Progressives in this period.

In 1922 the Municipal Reform and Progressives adopted the title of Ratepayers Association. In 1937 this became the Ratepayers Democratic Party.

In the following borough the parties contested the election without reverting to alliances:

Chelsea, Deptford, Hoborn, Islington, Kensington, Lambeth, Fulham, Paddington, St. Pancras, Stoke Newington, Wandsworth, Westminster and Woolwich.

The London County Council Elections 1889-1961

The London County Council was formed under the Local Government Act 1888. The first election was held on the 17th January 1889. It was contested by two groups called Moderates and Progressives. The results printed in the Times did not give candidates affiliations. In fact it was initially hoped that the elections would be fought on non-political lines. Many candidates came forward as the nominees of local Liberal and Conservative Associations. By 1892 when the next elections were held the Times published the previous results and included party labels. In order to ascertain party representation other contemporary books were consulted. However, it would take detailed research to identify all candidate affiliation with some accuracy and therefor the 1889 results should be treated accordingly. From 1892 however party affiliations were clearly expressed.

Parliamentary Constituencies were adopted for the LCC elections with two members being elected for each one and four elected for the City of London. This arrangement continued to 1949 when three members were elected for each constituency.
